A new Grange beginning

Noel T. Miller
State Master/President
president@ctstategrange.org

"We ask none to join us who cannot see good in their fellow beings."

These words are in the Grange Installation Ceremony. September is a new beginning with new officers being installed to their stations. The charges give those instructions as to the duties of their office. We should all witness an installation to renew our commitment to the Order. I welcome new officers and wish them success and remind everyone that together we move forward ... working against one another we stall or move in reverse.

I attended the Northeast Lecturer's Conference in Standish, Maine, with nice weather most of the time on Sebago Lake. This year's conference celebrated 100 years of Lecturers meeting to exchange ideas and programs to help educate and entertain Grangers. This was my third conference and I find it challenges everyone to get involved with new ways to make our lecturers programs less dull and more fun. Every Grange should allow their Lecturers time to present their program during a Grange meeting. It is one of our duties to education and make fun, with song or skit for our members. A good program can attract new members where a dull or same old program may cause members to lose interest. Our State Lecturer provides materials for all Lecturers and programs allow neighbors to exchange programs, check them out.

Remember the New England Grange Building Sales Room at the Big E is coming up with jams, relishes, handmade sewing items and a quilt to be raffled off. Grange Sunday is September 27. Members planning to participate in the parade should be on the grounds by 3 P.M. Hope to see you there!

The 131st Session of the Connecticut State Grange is just around the corner, we hope that resolutions will be coming forth, so we have work to do during the sessions. We hope to have many members taking the Sixth Degree. All announcements will be in the Granger so watch for them and reply quickly.

Our National Representative will be James Tetrault, National Lecturer, Jim is from New Hampshire and will bring great excitement and energy to our sessions. Please give him a warm Connecticut welcome during his stay with us.

Our Membership Committee is making arrangements for National Membership Director Michael Martin, to present a program on Mentoring in the Grange, this will be in October. Keep an eye out for it and mark your calendars.

National Session will soon be here. This year's host will be Lincoln, Nebraska. Election of Officers will be held this year and it will be my first time seeing a full election at National Grange. I think it will be exciting to see how different they do elections.

Camp Berger is Celebrating its 60th anniversary this October, and the Kimberly's are planning to host a Celebration during that month so please come and support the camp and see the improvements that have been made.

Many Community Granges are having their Fairs please take the time a visit them to let them know that we support them and have something to eat there for we all know that Grange food is the best, or a close 2nd to Mother's.

As schools begin we begin to prepare for the Harvest, with all working together the work goes fast, and fun can be found in the tedious task, you just have to look for it and persevere.

West Nile on the rise

NEW HAVEN – The State Mosquito Management Program today announced that mosquitoes trapped in five new towns tested positive for West Nile virus (WNV). These results represent the first positive mosquitoes identified in Bridgeport, Chester, Greenwich, Norwalk, and Stratford by the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station (CAES) this year. The mosquitoes were trapped from July 30 to August 5, 2015.

During 2015, WNV-positive mosquitoes have now been identified in a total of 11 towns: Bridgeport, Chester, Darien, Guilford, Greenwich, New Haven, Norwalk, Stamford, Stratford, Waterford, and West Haven. Additional WNV detections were reported from New Haven, Stamford, and West Haven during the last reporting period (July 30 to August 5, 2015).

"We are seeing an increase in the number of mosquitoes carrying West Nile virus with expansion into new locations especially in coastal Fairfield and New Haven counties,"

Plan to attend all or part of State Session sent in to the Central Office as soon as your Grange is able to select Delegates for the Session. Also, please be sure you give your delegates the card they are required to turn in when they check-in at Session. (Please make sure they are filled out and sealed by the Secretary).

The State Master has completed the Session Committee assignments and they are also included in this issue. Unfortunately, we do not have a great deal of resolutions to present to you in this issue. The full docket of resolutions received by Sept. 15 will be printed in the October issue of the Granger allowing committees the opportunity to review their committee work ahead of time.

If you have been considering writing a resolution but haven't done so, please think about doing it this time around-- so far the numbers are small so it may be the perfect time to submit your resolution.

If you need assistance in writing your resolution, please Sister Alma Graham, or Brother Gordon Gibson for help. You can also contact me at the Central Office and I will put you in touch with them.

A BIG THANK YOU to all Secretaries for sending in the Directory and mailing list information as requested. There are still quite a few Granges that I have not heard from but we are off to a good start. I would like to have the new Directories in all Granges shortly after State Session but that will only be possible if I have your officer and committee information soon. If your Grange did not receive a form, please let me know and I will get one out to you. You can call me at the Central Office on most Tuesdays and Thursdays at 860-633-7550 or my cell at 860-307-1522 anytime.

We ran an ad in the last issue of the Granger promoting the new Calendars that will be made available for the first time at State Session. The calendars will feature historical pictures of CT Grange halls and meeting places.

I thank Sister Edith Schoell in advance for volunteering to be our "Storekeeper" for State Session. There's a lot of wonderful jewelry and Grange supplies available so stop by and say "Hi!"

We will also have a couple more new items for sale in the Grange Store at State Session that I think you will all love. So why not bring a little extra spending money to State Session and stock up on Christmas gifts!

Planning for the 2015 State Session began back in February with our initial meetings with the Sheraton staff. As of this writing, the menus have been finalized and the block of rooms is open and ready for all members to begin making reservations. As always, we remind you to mention the State Grange Convention when making your reservation to receive our special rate of $89.00 (plus tax/per night). Let me know if you have any difficulties and I will make sure your room is reserved properly and for the correct rate.

On this page you will notice the registration form for this year's session. All rates and fees have remained the same. Please send in your registrations as soon as possible, making sure you indicate your meal choice for the banquet (if attending).

As I mentioned last month, the Board of Directors has decided to absorb the increased meal costs for this year, but please expect a higher banquet cost next year.

When sending in your reservations, please make sure your checks are made payable to the CONNECTICUT STATE GRANGE. Please do not make them payable to me or any other individual. This would require us to deposit the money in our personal accounts and reimburse the State Grange or to have you issue a new check. For some unknown reason, this has been happening more frequently lately.

Several weeks ago, a mailing went out containing the registration materials for Session, Dues Receipts, the 2014 Journal and a reminder of items needed in the Central Office. I would ask all Secretaries to review these items carefully and respond promptly.

It is also very important that the Delegate cards are said Dr. Philip Armstrong, Medical Entomologist at the CAES. "This is the most critical time of summer when virus activity reaches its peak in the mosquito population."

"August and September are the months when people are at greatest risk of West Nile virus infection," said Dr. Theodore Andreadis, Director of the Center for Vector Biology & Zoonotic Diseases at the CAES. "With higher temperatures and recent rainfall this past week, we anticipate further build-up of the virus in mosquitoes. We strongly encourage people in affected communities to take simple steps to prevent mosquito bites, such as using insect repellent and covering bare skin, especially during dusk and dawn when biting mosquitoes are most active."

The State of Connecticut Mosquito Management Program is a collaborative effort involving the Department of Energy & Environmental Protection, the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station, the Department of Public Health, the Department of Agriculture, and the University of Connecticut Department of Pathobiology and Veterinary Science. These agencies are responsible for monitoring the potential public health threat of mosquito-borne diseases.

The CAES maintains a network of 91 mosquito-trapping stations in 72 municipalities throughout the state. Mosquito traps are set Monday – Thursday nights at each site every ten days on a rotating basis. Mosquitoes are grouped (pooled) for testing according to species, collection site, and date. Positive findings are reported to local health departments and on the CAES website at <http://www.ct.gov/mosquitotesting>.

For information on West Nile and eastern equine encephalitis viruses and how to prevent mosquito bites, visit the Connecticut Mosquito Management Program Web site at www.ct.gov/mosquito; <http://www.ct.gov/mosquito>.

Got resolutions?

Alma Graham
Legislative Director
Legislative@ctstategrange.org

15th. It is not too late to send a resolution in.

We have had many discussions this last year on possible resolutions. Remember tolls? The Governor is looking for additional ways to fund our transportation infrastructure. One of his proposals was adding tolls back to our highways. Tolls will probably appear again in future budget proposals. If tolls can be done with minimal impact to the drivers using new technology, would that be acceptable? We would need to see what type of technology the states around us use for collecting these tolls. It would not be good for CT to have a different system than our neighboring states. What are your feelings on tolls? Should we have tolls at all?

What about the Governor taking monies out of the Community Investment Act (CIA) to fill in the General Funds. The CIA funds support farmland preservation, restoration of historic buildings, support affordable housing and many agricultural projects. Not all of the funding was taken this time but it may be looked at again in the future. How do you feel about that?

This year there was a large data breach in Anthem Health Care which affected many Connecticut residents. Do you have any thoughts on protecting the public from these data breaches? What about other identify protection issues? One of the mailings that I recently received from one of my local legislators mentions three upcoming bills for the 2016 Legislative Session. One is SB 1042 requiring insurance companies, health providers and pharmacies to encrypt personal data. The second bill is SB 589 which would require companies to notify you if your personal information has been compromised. The third bill would waive the fees for credit reporting agencies if you are a victim of identity theft and need to freeze your credit.

A bill was presented last year that would exempt the value of lands under the 490 farm and agricultural land use program from being included in the person's estate in calculating the amount of inheritance tax that the survivors must pay. It died in committee last year but may be seen in the future.

The legislature also looked at expanding the bottle bill to include beverage such as iced tea and sports drinks. Should that be expanded? Do we need to bottle bill anymore? Now that communities are required to recycle is there a need for the bottle bill? We could reduce the costs to consumers of beverages by removing deposit costs. The state may not like it as they would no longer get the windfall from the unclaimed deposits.

These are just a few items that may appear in the coming year's legislative session.

Reserve your copy now!

Available in October- a calendar featuring photos of Connecticut Grange halls and meeting places through the years. See how many you remember, or maybe weren't even aware of. You might even find your own.

One full-size picture each month, B/W or color, in a spiral-bound, high-quality 15 month calendar ready to use in October 2015. Would make a great gift or addition to your hall or home.

Quantities are limited, so order in advance through the State Office. They will also be available for sale at State Session.

This is a new project and if interest prevails this will be the first in a series which will eventually include nearly all of the meeting places throughout the history of the Grange in our State.

EKONK COMM. GRANGE #89

Let me start by thanking Katie Molodich for all of her service to Ekonk Community Grange as our President this past year. You did an outstanding job and we cannot thank you enough for your leadership.

We just finished another successful Fair and we want to thank anyone and everyone who had a hand in its success. Great job everyone.

September brings us to another busy month, we have a Peach Supper on September 19th. Fresh Peach Shortcake with real whipped cream for dessert.

Our next meeting is September 21st, we skip the first Monday because of Labor Day. Come to enjoy Link Cooper's first program as Program Director. I have been told we don't want to miss this.

KILLINGLY GRANGE #112

On July 20 Killingly Grange held their annual summer "get together" picnic at the Grange. As usual, it was a really hot night. It was also a special occasion as there were (4) four members who have belonged to the Grange for 50 years or more. The latest member, Glenna Bruno, was presented her 50 year certificate by State Master Noel Miller who congratulated her for her many years of service.

It was also a special week for Glenna as she had just had a big birthday celebration given by her family on the occasion of her 90th birthday.

In Glenna's Grange life she has held positions of Master of Killingly Grange (8) years, Overseer for at least four and was Pomona for several years also. She has been affiliated with Wolf Den Grange #61 as Ceres for several years and filled the chair of Lecturer at the former Brooklyn Grange #43.

Quote: "Of my many years in the Grange I have seen many changes – some good and some not so good. Years ago- the Granges would visit other Granges within the State and also visit Granges in other states nearby. Often we had a couple of carloads meet at Killingly Grange then go to RI or Mass. for a meeting and bring "entertainment" in the form of a skit or other activity as part of the Lecturer's program.

Glenna has been the Killingly Grange correspondent for many years which she enjoyed. Will she rest on her laurels? Well, hardly! She will sit on the sidelines and fill in where needed.

Of the 50 year plus members, Cranston Briggs, Josephine Stenback, Eleanor Davis and Glenna Bruno have all held offices at one time or another.

Hank the Burro was also in attendance at the meeting and congratulated Penny Harris and John Bennet on their upcoming marriage in August. Best wishes also from Killingly Grange members.

Benefits of photos in promotion

by Terri Fassio, Public Rel. Co-Director

The old adage "a picture is worth a thousands words" still holds true to this day. Quality photos can be a useful promotional resource for your Grange.

Studies show that social media posts that include a photo or graphic with them have 94% more views than just plain textual posts. (1)

Outside of the social media realm, photos and visual imagery continue to play a part of our everyday lives. Magazines, some books and newspapers are chock full of photography and visuals. Exhibits, product displays, murals, bulletin boards, promotional booths, greeting cards and more are just a few of the examples we find where photography and visuals plays a part of our daily lives. Granges can easily boost their presence to the public by utilizing the power of photography.

When combining words and images, visual communications tell a story to the audience. That story might be a Grange member receiving their 65-year membership seal or the Grange presenting dictionaries to local third-graders. The story could even be conveying the benefits of being a Grange member to prospective members. Photos and graphics not only inform and engage the public, but they also entertain.

So how can my Grange take advantage of photography and visual communications?

Take photos. Lots of photos. Bring a digital camera - or even your cell phone - to every Grange meeting and event, then share the photos with your members. Hang the photos on a bulletin board in your hall.

Make a Grange Scrapbook and bring it to your meetings to share with your members and visitors. Post the photos on your Grange's Facebook Page and website, and send them to the CT State Grange website to be added into the Virtual Scrapbook. Send the photos to the CT Granger for publication. E-mail the best of the photos and a well-written caption to your local newspapers.

Create a poster using the photos to promote upcoming Grange events. Integrate the photos into a presentation. Print out the photos for a Grange display that can be used in the local library, at a local Agricultural Fair, or even at a trade show or Chamber of Commerce meeting. Enter the photos in the Lecturer's Photo Contest or exhibit them at your local Ag Fair.

Need help? Photography and videography services are available from the Public Relations Committee for awards nights, special meetings, programs and events at your Grange. All we ask is that you give us plenty of advance notice to ensure we can fulfill your needs.

Tell your Grange story with visuals, capture and retain the public's attention, and reap the benefits.

Contact any member of the committee, or e-mail us at information@ctstategrange.org or publicrelations@ctstategrange.org for more information.

Where has the summer gone. Here I am typing up an article for the September issue of the Granger.

Glastonbury will meet September 3rd at 7:30 p.m. It will be Installation of Officers. Refreshments are "Pot Luck Dessert". This sounds interesting. Fall Grange activities are beginning. Our Monte Carlo Whist Card Parties begin October 10th. Put that date on your calendar and bring a friend or two with you.

We also have something new on our calendar of activities. Oct. 3rd a Foodless, Bakeless Sale. Hope everyone can help us with this fundraiser.

I don't like to be the bearer of bad news but as I am typing this article we are short on income this year. Our expenses remain the same and the income is down. WE NEED YOUR FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE. I will give you the dates for our November and December card parties. November 14th and December 12th.

Have you thought of any neighbor or relative that might like to join the Grange? We do need some new members. There was a time when our membership was way over 100. It is now down to 50. Give serious thoughts to who we could contact to become a member. You can give the name and address to me, Kay Ruff, Secretary 860-315-5336 and I would gladly contact the prospective member. See you at the September 3rd meeting 7:30 p.m.

Integrity of "Connecticut Grown" reinforced by State

by Christina DiMartino, The Produce News

State-supported locally grown initiatives have gained tremendous momentum during the past decade. Consumers are increasingly aware that buying food produced nearby supports local farms, boosts local economies, builds stronger communities, requires less transportation, reduces waste, results in fresher produce, is good for the soil and attracts tourism.

It's been a learning curve for many states, and refinement continues today in nearly every initiative.

Connecticut is among the states that are tightening laws and increasing scrutiny in an effort to boost the integrity of the Connecticut Grown initiative.

On July 21, the Connecticut Department of Agriculture issued a release advising farmers, food producers and consumers of recent changes in state law that refine use of the "Connecticut Grown" brand and logo at farmers markets.

As of Oct. 1, all products sold at farmers markets as "Connecticut Grown" must be accompanied by a sign that identifies the name and address of the farm or business where the product was grown or made.

Under the bill, which was passed unanimously by the General Assembly and signed into law in July by Gov. Dannel P. Malloy, "Connecticut Grown" signs at farmers markets must be readily visible to consumers; be at least three by five inches in size; have lettering in a size, font or print clearly and easily legible; state something substantially similar to "This farm product is Connecticut-grown," or "This farm product was grown or produced by the following person or business;" and must include the name and address of the producer. The sign also must be in the immediate proximity of the offered product.

The Connecticut Grown program was developed in 1986 to identify agricultural products grown in-state. Studies have shown the brand to be readily identifiable in the marketplace and that consumers look to buy from Connecticut farmers.

It is also linked to the U.S. Department of Agriculture Farmers Market Nutrition Program, which provides federal funding for lower-income residents to purchase "Connecticut Grown" produce and qualifying products sold at certified farmers markets.

Connecticut Agriculture Commissioner Steven K. Reviczky said in the press release, "It's a matter of fairness and of truth in advertising. Consumers have the right to know what they are buying and ethical producers who play by the rules deserve to be protected from unfair competition by those looking to falsely use the 'Connecticut Grown' label."

He noted that these programs create an expectation that the use of the label and associated funds are in strict compliance with the law, and that the change is intended to ensure the integrity of the "Connecticut Grown" brand, for both the benefit of consumers and producers.

While fraudulent use of the label is not believed to be widespread, Reviczky said the department typically receives numerous complaints per year about alleged deceptive practices.

The changes in the law will be reflected in "Connecticut Grown" pricing signs issued free to growers and producers by the department of agriculture.

A space for the name and address of the farm or business will now be included on the five-inch by seven-inch signs, which also bear the "Connecticut Grown" label and logo. Producers also may make their own sign containing the required information.

The agriculture department's Bureau of Regulation & Inspection will enforce the new law by making unannounced visits to farmers markets on a random basis, as well as in response to complaints.

Strolling of the Heifers is a nonprofit organization with the mission of connecting people with healthy local food and building strong communities. The organization publishes an annual Locavore Index that rates how states perform in their locally produced programs, listing the best at the top.

The 2015 Locavore Index reports that the four top states in the nation this year are Vermont, Maine, New Hampshire and Oregon, in that order. Connecticut rated No. 10, which is up considerable from its number 20 rating in 2014. New England states all rate in the top 20, indicating a widespread movement being spurred by state governments, producers and consumers alike in the region.

The new Connecticut law also increases the fine for violators; from $25 to $100. Reviczky said first-time violators usually receive a warning.

"The goal is not to prosecute people," he said. "It is to ensure that only products grown in Connecticut soil can carry the 'Connecticut Grown' label that supports the hardworking farm families in our state. Unfortunately, the new law does not apply to farm stands or grocery stores."

Products grown or produced in Connecticut or within a 10-mile radius of the point of sale may be labeled as native, native-grown, local, or locally grown, but are only subject to the new law if they are labeled "Connecticut Grown."

June was a busy month for our grangers. Chaplain Cindy Prelli presented a meaningful program in memory of the following members who are no longer with us: Virginia Butler, Willard King, Louise Jasmine, Rujo Moore and Albert Yadach. The candle ceremony was very impressive. Our election of officers was held in June with Sue Belle-Isle elected Master; Sharon Russell, Overseer; Dawn Anstett, Lecturer and Peter Keefe was elected for a three-year term on the Executive Committee. We congratulate all those who accepted an office at our grange and wish them a fruitful year. Members and friends are encouraged to attend in support of our new officers.

June was also Dairy Month. Members Amanda & Rachel Freund prepared and hosted a dairy dinner at our grange on June 13. They also presented much information about new technology at the Freund Farm in Canaan. It was a fun evening with excellent food (all dairy, plus chicken), entertainment and much education.

During July and August we changed our by-laws, hosted our annual grange fair and held planning meetings for the ensuing year. The bylaw change requires one business meeting per month rather than two. Other meetings and special events will be announced and advertised via our newly formed Publicity Committee.

Please watch for grange events via Channel 13, newspapers, email, telephone, and Facebook. The changes are reflected in the newest Pomona handbook. The annual fair under the direction of Dawn Anstett had many entries especially in the flowers and vegetable departments. Thank you to Jon Krish for providing an educational piece on master gardening.

All are invited to attend our Installation of Officers on Friday, September 18, 2015 at 7:30 p.m. The Prelli Installing Team under the direction of Gail Prelli will install our new officers. Gail always does a beautiful job, as do her associates. Our own George Russell will be installed as Pomona Master at Riverton Grange, on Monday, September 14, 2015 at 7:30 p.m.

Grange to participate in Winchester Center Day

Take a trip to the heart of historic Litchfield County, Connecticut and experience the sights and sounds Winchester Center Day on Saturday, September 19th, from 10:30 AM to 2:30 PM.

Winchester Center is a quaint New England community, complete with tree-lined roads and a town green surrounded by the Congregational Church, Grange Hall and historic homes. The numerous organizations of Winchester Center have each planned events as part of this special community day.

The town green will come alive for Winchester Center Day with an Antique Car Show, and music in the Gazebo.

The Winchester Center Congregational Church, established in 1771, will host an open house with guided tours showcasing their history, children's games and activities and more.

Winchester Grange will host a Craft and Gift Sale with over local vendors inside the lower Grange Hall and an art show in the upstairs hall, from 10:00 AM - 3:00 PM. Winchester Grange will also be offering a Passport Scavenger Hunt for children during the day's festivities.

The Winchester Center Historical Association will have it's museum open throughout the day, giving tours of the Old Chapel with many items on display, and will be showcasing a blacksmithing demonstration. While visiting the museum, be sure to note the old chimney which marks the home of the first settler, Caleb Beach, in 1750. The Historical Association is a volunteer organization with members working to promote awareness of the area's rich history.

The Winchester Center Volunteer Fire Department, organized in 1948, located behind the Grange Hall, will be participating in the festivities by having its firetrucks on display, and a firefighting foam demonstration.

Food will be available for purchase throughout the day at the Church, the Grange Hall, and the Historical Association.

The small village of Winchester Center lies about 4 miles southwest of Winsted, or approximately 6 miles northeast of Torrington, at the intersection of Route 263 and Newfield Road.

Time to nominate your Granger of the year!

A reminder to all Granges that applications for the "Granger of the Year" contest are due to the Social Director Joanne Cipriano by September 19th. Applications were sent to each Grange Secretary a few months ago.

Also our "We Reach Out" project. For this project we are asking each Grange to fill a shoe box with items to be given to the West Haven Veterans Hospital. We have received a number of items so if you would just like to donate a couple of things a few suggestions are: combs, playing cards, stamps, deoderant and greeting cards.

We thank you most sincerely for your help.

Things are slowing a bit during the summer months. We enjoyed our annual picnic on July 15th at the Bernhardt's. Several of our members attended the New England Lecturer's Conference in early August in Standish, Maine.

June 11 – "Planning and Election of Officers". One of the programs in October will be titled "Connecticut Tree Challenge on Oct 8th. This program will be presented by Bill Austin, our in-house tree expert. Some of the topics he will be discussing will be the use of smaller tree species around power lines, home owner vs. town ownership rights and other topics concerning the planting and care of trees around town.

Dan discussed a June 7th article in the Hartford Courant titled "All Veg: Bad for Birds". What this article talked about was the myth of a vegetarian chicken. Some in the general public may be fooled into believing that a chicken that was raised on a strictly vegetarian diet is good thing for them to consume. What they don't realize is that a non-supplemented vegetarian diet is not good for chickens. Chickens are natural omnivores that will eat bugs or small animals if they can get it, forced vegetarianism can be a disaster for the bird since they need essential proteins that can only get from eating bugs, etc.

Janet announced that the fair book has been finalized and has an additional two new ads.

We had election of officers and there were no changes.

June 25 – Meeting was canceled because of scheduling conflicts.

During this week a strong thunderstorm came roaring through Wallingford bringing down a number of medium size branches on our front lawn and was blocking up the front sidewalk. In the grange's backyard a whole corner of the property was just full of branches and debris that also damaged a fence that borders our neighbor's driveway. Fortunately the hall had no damaged due to this storm.

July 9 – Our Annual Picnic. We had a beautiful evening. Vern started the hot dogs and hamburgers early and everyone brought a dish to share. Bill and Barbara Austin came to join us who we haven't seen in a while. Everyone enjoyed the good company and food.

July 25 – Our 2nd Annual Ice Cream Social. The day was one of the 10 best days of the year. It was a bright, beautiful sunny warm day. The social started at Noon but we didn't get our first customers until a half hour later when a family showed up looking for ice cream. From then on we had a slow steady stream of people of all kinds who stopped to get some ice cream and would sit down and chat for a while.

Meeting and Events in September:

Sept 10 – Fair Work Night. Pizza afterwards.

We were also joined by George Rood who played the piano for us and helped us upgrade our singing to almost good! Thank you George! We appreciate Ted, Lois and Ann Marie's contributions to our meetings. And welcome back to Carol Bourque.

Donations have been made to Bacon Academy Scholarship Funds, and to Camp Berger among others. Always rewarding to give to give our support when we can.

Leonard Farm has donated 60 lbs of vegetables to our senior center food services so far this season and the fresh produce is very appreciated.

Congratulations to Cathy Russi for her decorated flower pot entry win, and to everyone who entered.

The Grange sponsored hayrides at Zagray Farm in June were very successful and enjoyed by many. Thank you to Chris Bourque for donating his time and the hay wagon.

Plans were made for our donation to the Pomona Raffle and our annual picnic at Leonard's Farm in August.

Something to remember for all Grangers regarding buying produce locally. Our local farmers work very hard to provide the best possible cheeses, vegetables and fruits for our communities and we need to support them by purchasing locally whenever possible.

Our thanks to everyone who helped in the food booth for the 4H Exposition. We couldn't do it without you.

At our June meeting in July (too many Fairs on the grounds) Ellie Banker told us all about the history of our school system. We started out with fifteen one-room schoolhouses scattered all over town way back when. One had the interesting nickname "Bloody Six". If you were at the meeting you know why.

Sue says the September programs are a "surprise," but whatever they are they will be good. They always are. This year the titles are based on "A pep talk according to Halls." Come to a meeting and make sure you put your name on the refreshment list for the year. The summer heat will be over and the crisp autumn breezes will be here. Our meeting was attended by 17 loyal Grange members. The Lecturer gave her report. By the time you read this our Hamburg Fair will be history. I just hope the man upstairs sends us some nice "Fair" weather. Not hot and stormy but just right.

Hope everyone enjoyed summer and stayed away from ticks and our famous Lyme Disease.

Apple, celery & walnut salad

September is back to school time, and in the Grange, time for Installation of Officers - which means the start of the Fall potluck season! There's no better way to celebrate than with a classic Apple recipe! Epicurious has an easy recipe for Apple, Celery and Walnut Salad.

- Juice of 1/2 lemon
- 2 ribs celery, diced
- 1/2 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
- 1/3 cup golden raisins
- 1/4 cup reduced-calorie mayonnaise
- 1/4 cup low-fat sour cream
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper, to taste

Toss the apples with the lemon juice in a bowl. Add celery, walnuts, and raisins, then toss. Combine the mayo and sour cream in another bowl, then fold into the apple mixture. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Pack in a tightly covered, plastic container.

Marge Bernhardt
State Lecturer

lecturer@ctstategrange.org

The 100th Annual Northeast Grange Lecturers' Conference is now part of history and with a total of 140 people registered it was one of the biggest ones in recent years. Twenty-three from Connecticut ventured north to Maine for this years conference.

To all who attended or gave me information for the program I say thank you. And, to those who donated toward my gift a special thank you. This was my 13th conference program and for all thirteen years you people have been wonderful. Your support means a lot, especially this year, because of all that all we have been through the last couple of months.

Now, on to next year. Rhode Island will be hosting the 101st Conference at Bridgewater State College in Massachusetts. We have been there before and it is a nice campus. The conference theme is "Come Visit Us In...". Our program will be entitled "Come visit us in Connecticut". If you have any skits or numbers featuring spots in Connecticut I would appreciate your sharing them with me. It's never too early to start looking.

With your September - October Newsletter all

Lecturers should have received their Honor Lecturer report form. Please take the time to fill it out even if you don't qualify. This along with your Essays, Complete Programs and Should Auld Acquaintance Reports are due to me by October 1st. This deadline is strictly followed as I have to get them to the judges and then make out the certificates and etc.

Fall is here. Enjoy the cooler weather and enjoy your life. It is too precious to waste even a second of it. Hoping to see you around the State.

Hello Grange Friends! Vacation is over and it's back to visiting!

I started the month by attending the Norwich Grange Fair on August 1st. They had lovely exhibits, and good food and music too! I met a new furry friend too!

Then it off to Maine for the NE Region's Lecturers' Conference. The traffic on the way up was crazy - but we made it! The conference was fun, even with the noise of thunder storms to fall asleep to and the hail to keep everyone on their toes

We had the chance to take a side trip to Freeport to take in the sights at LLBean. Wow - that moose is BIG, but that boot is BIGGER!! We also made a stop at Boothbay Harbor for the awesome view.

Once back from Maine, we took a trip to see our friends at North Haven Grange, and also at Preston City Grange. I love meeting new Grange friends!

Then we took a trip to visit our friends at Granby Grange. They have an amazing Grange mural on their wall, that was originally from GFox store in Hartford - so of course we had to take a photo in front of it!

Be sure to say Hello if you see me around the State!

HARMONY GRANGE #92

Corr: George Ward

Sept. 25: Installation of Officers, Refreshments at 6:30, Meeting at 7:30

Our annual Agricultural Fair was held August 15th at the Grange Hall and grounds. Much planning was done at special meetings to make it a success as it is a fundraiser.

Many thanks go to Ron and Gail Bunovsky for the many phone calls and personal contacts to get exhibits of farm equipment to get people to attend and at least have breakfast, lunch or both. Inside the hall we had vegetables, flowers, canned goods, needlework, and others were judged for ribbons and prize money. A member of the Connecticut State Grange Membership Committee, Maggie Buck, had a membership table to sign up potential new members.

In July we held our election of officers for the next two years. All chairs were filled. Installation of officers will be the fourth Friday in September (25th) by Past State Master and Past First Lady Bob and Marge Sendewicz. The meeting was scheduled for the fourth Friday as both Bob and Marge will be out of town the second Friday, which is our regularly scheduled meeting night.

Harmony Grange has elected one new member and will ballot on three more candidates at our August meeting. Harmony Grange has put much effort in membership and we expect a good increase in our membership for the coming year.

After our Agricultural Fair, we will have special meetings to prepare for our 125th Anniversary which has been written up in several issues of the CT Granger. As stated previously, we will have a history of the area Granges that make up the present membership of Harmony Grange as well as other activities.. The date is Sunday, October 4th, beginning at 1 P.M., at the Grange Hall. The April issue of the CT Granger had a write-up of our plans.

Dec 5: Holiday Market (10 AM - 3 PM)

A busy summer with fair preparations and the presentation on August 30th of our 83rd Agricultural Fair. A more definitive review and re-cap will appear in next month’s paper.

We were pleased with the attendance growth at many of our meetings in the previous Grange program year, that we will be continuing with the same theme for our learning-events in the year ahead: Healthy Living.

We are exploring the many ways that children, youth and young adults and adults can pursue an active and varied life that embraces healthy living through. Check our program schedule often to see what we have planned.

WINDOW TO THE PAST

Photographs are a treasured part of Grange history. Many of them, unfortunately, do not come neatly labeled on the back with names, dates, people or places. These photographs have a history to tell... but about whom or what? Please help us solve the mystery of faces and places as we look through the Window to the Past. You can contact us by calling (860) 626-5074 or on the web by emailing: submissions@ctstategrange.org.

No answers for August Pic. Heard from Janet Haller on the March Window photo. She put on her sleuthing hat and found that the photo was published in the May 1974 issue of the CT Granger. According to the caption, a 50-year citation was presented by State Chaplain Carlton Platt to Sterling Mills (left) and Marian Mills at Indian River Grange. Not present for the photo was Miss Bessie Hubbard.

Fairs are "in his blood"

Charles Dimmick supervises a pie eating contest at the Cheshire Grange Fair

By Joy VanderLek – The Cheshire Citizen

Cheshire's Charles Dimmick wears so many hats, he is widely known throughout town for his many activities.

Some may know the 75-year-old as a retired Central Connecticut State University geology professor, he's also a certified geologist. Others may know him as the father to Wesley and Edward. Then there's his work in creating and sitting on the town's Inland Wetlands and Watercourses Commission board for four decades.

Some may connect with him from one of his speaking engagements—his presentations have been booked with numerous organizations, clubs and functions.

One hat you may have missed? The hat Dimmick wears as an agricultural fair inspector. Dimmick is a member of the non-profit Association of CT fairs, and chair of the Classification Committee. The association provides oversight to its member CT Agricultural Fairs. It's a group that's been around 100 years, said Dimmick. His qualification for working with the group is simple. According to Dimmick, "I'm upright and breathing," he said laughing. He also explains that it is a volunteer position.

"I love fairs," Dimmick said. "It's in my blood," he added, waxing about his youth and his initiation into agricultural fairs. Living in New Jersey for a time when he was a young boy, Dimmick remembers being the youngest member of the Rabbit and Cavey Association. At the tender age of nine, he was recruited as the night watchman for the Dutch rabbits during the Morris County Fair. He recalls spending his time chasing after escapee rabbits and putting them back into their cages.

When settling in Cheshire in the early 1970s, he eventually found himself joining the Cheshire Grange, due in large part, because they had a fair. He, of course, became to be put in charge of the rabbits.

In Connecticut, July through October is "fair season". That's when Dimmick is busiest. In his job, he "dives up the work" among those inspectors to make sure all the fairs are covered. He inspects at least 13 fairs himself.

Fairs vary in size and needs. Dimmick counts 20 major fairs, five district fairs and 25 local fairs in state. Different sized fairs have different requirements. The Lebanon Country Fair, Durham Fair and North Haven Fairs are major fairs. These fairs must follow strict rules of compliance when it comes to numbers and requirements. Major fairs must have rides and a certain number of them. Major fairs also adhere to a minimum number of animals exhibited and/or entered into competitions—sheep, cows, chickens, rabbits, et cetera. They also comply with a certain number of overall contests, competitions, and exhibits. The larger fairs are where people will find animal and tractor pulls, a midway with rides, commercial vendors, a home arts section with baked goods, vegetables, canned items, needlework and the like for exhibit and judging.

Local fairs include the Cheshire Grange Fair. While requirements mimic those of major fairs, the rules are not as strict or extensive. Dimmick also wears many hats at the Cheshire Grange. One position, that of chaplain, is one he's held since 1995. He and his sons are heavily involved in the Cheshire Grange, and its annual Ag Fair, held this year Aug. 22-23. It's a lot of work in the small span of time that is the fair season. Why does he do it? "We do this for the fun of it. We put on a good show for the people." Who could ask for more?

State Chaplain

Charles Dimmick, State Chaplain

It is my impression that too many people look on religious observance as a list of things that they should not do, rather than a guide as to what they should do, and thus construct for themselves an image of an avenging God who is looking for an opportunity to condemn them to everlasting hellfire. To them religion is "Thou shalt not", whereas even moderate familiarity with scripture will show that the proper emphasis is on "Thou shalt". After all, when Jesus was asked what is the greatest commandment his answer was "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind" and then added "and the second is like unto it; thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets."

These two "thou shalt" rules cover everything, including the "shalt not's". If you strive to follow these by giving yourself to loving God and loving your neighbor you will no longer have inclination or motivation to run afoul of the shalt not's. If you truly love your fellow human beings you will not lie, cheat, or steal or even covet. As for the seven deadly sins: wrath, greed, sloth, pride, lust, envy, and gluttony, they are pretty much covered also. How can you love your fellow human beings and yet have room for wrath, greed, lust and envy? Sloth, pride, and gluttony may not at first seem to be covered in this, but they are an outcome of not fully embracing both basic commandments. Sloth and gluttony, especially in combination, are bad for your health, and may lay the foundation for a heart attack. "Love your neighbor as yourself" includes loving yourself to the point of at least taking care of yourself, and not voluntarily letting your health deteriorate to the point of becoming a burden to others.

Pride is a little trickier, at least because in English the word pride has several different meanings. The opposite of pride is humility, but even here one has to be a bit cautious. Pride expressed as boasting and thinking of oneself as better than others is harmful and certainly not an example of loving one's neighbor. But false humility, pretending that one is humble or acting humble when you don't really mean it, is also harmful. St. Paul deals with this in Colossians 2:18-23 (I'll let you read this on your own as a homework assignment). What one needs to aim for is humble pride. In God's eyes you are no better than anyone else, but also you are no worse than anyone else. Finally, remember what the prophet Micah said: "what does the LORD require of you but to do justice, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with your God?"
